

Course Title: J&K Constitution

Course Code: IL-C-901

Course Objective: This course is meant to expose the students to the various nuances and niceties of the evolution of constitutional developments in the erstwhile state of Jammu and Kashmir. The UT of J&K has meandered through a long way in its constitutional journey. From its status as the princely state to one of the states in the Union of India with a special status, it has been the hub of many legal frameworks which have regulated its existence from time to time. The very dynamism of these frameworks is breathtaking. The legal debates and discussions accompanying these developments carry within themselves tremendous legal insights.

Course Outcome: After completing this course, students are expected to develop a comprehensive understanding of the constitutional developments in the UT of J&K. They are expected to develop the capacity to critically analyze the interface between politics and constitutional developments within the erstwhile state of Jammu and Kashmir. From time to time, the courts also have discussed these developments within a number of cases. By critically analyzing these cases, the students are expected to comprehend the legal reasoning which forms the bases of these judgments and how these templates of legal reasoning keep on changing from one judgment to another.
