Translation Today (TT) is a biannual peer reviewed and refereed journal published by National Translation Mission (NTM), Central Institute of Indian Languages (CIIL), Manasagangotri, Mysore. It is accredited as one of the leading journals in the area of Translation Studies by the Indian universities such as JNU etc. We would like to inform all the contributors, reviewers etc. that NTM would be publishing the forth coming issue in the month of June 2016. As all of you know that NTM has revived the journal from July, 2014 and it is getting good response from the readers from India and abroad. TT is interested in the articles on emergent and challenging issues in translation and interpreting studies. It proposes to contribute and enrich the burgeoning discipline of Translation Studies by publishing research articles as well as actual translations from and into Indian languages. TT is designed to provide researchers from all areas of translation and interpreting studies with the opportunity to share their researches. It deals with the rising questions in theoretical and practical translation and their social significance as a site of knowledge production in India. Since NTM is translating the textbooks recommended in Indian universities for UG & PG level in its first phase, the contributors are requested to focus on the issues related to textbook translations of science subjects, social sciences, humanities etc.

Contributions in the form of conceptual and empirical research reports, research articles, and book reviews are welcome. TT welcomes contributions of articles and other suitable material for its issues in the following areas: Annotated and original translations of all literary genres, translated excerpts from novels are accepted where they stand on their own, glossaries in any subject in any language-pair (Indian Languages to Indian Languages or Indian Languages to English or English to Indian Languages or foreign languages to Indian languages), specialties in the translation profession: religious, technical, scientific, legal, commercial, specialties in the interpreting profession: court, conference, medical and community, multimedia, terminology, localization, translation technology: HAMT, translation memory softwares, translation teaching softwares, papers on translation as a category of or a significant dimension of thought, pieces relating translation to society, to culture, to philosophy, to poetics, to aesthetics, to epistemology, to ontology, to movements like feminism, subalternism, to power and so on, translation universals etc., to awarenesses like civilisational space, nationalism, identity, the self, the other and so on, on translation pedagogy, translation curriculum, translation syllabus etc., ethics, status, and future of the profession, issues regarding translator and Translation Studies, legal, copyright issues etc., squibs and discussion, notes which are short pieces throwing up an interesting problem or analytical puzzle, reviews of translated texts, dictionaries and software, letters to the editor.

An acknowledgement will be sent to the authors upon receiving their papers over the email. The papers are initially scrutinized by the editors and selected papers are sent out to the reviewers. The reviewers are asked to reply within a month. We follow the double-blind system of peer-review and the reviewers' and authors' identities remain anonymous to each other. Contributors may contact the editors to know about the status of their papers. Unpublished contributions will be preferred. While submitting pieces already published elsewhere, the author must mention the fact as well as get permission to reproduce the same. Once the paper is accepted, it will not be published elsewhere in the same form, in English or in any other language, without the written consent of the editors. The editors reserve the right to edit or otherwise alter all contributions. The submissions should come with the author's name, address, institutional affiliation, contact info and any major academic achievement. All articles shall be accompanied by a 100-word Abstract along with a small Bio-note. The last date for submission for the present volume is 30th April, 2016.
